UBUD, THE CULTURE HUB

Ubud, a town in central Bali, is regarded as the island’s cultural center. It is famous as an arts and crafts hub, with the town and nearby villages brimming with artist’s workshops and galleries. Ubud gets its name from the Balinese word ubad (medicine).

Tourism on the island developed after the arrival of Walter Spies, an ethnic German born in Russia who taught painting and music, and dabbled in dance. Spies and foreign painters Willem Hörkder and Rudolf Bonnet entertained celebrities including Charlie Chaplin, Noel Coward, Barbara Hutton, H.G. Wells and Vicki Baum.

The Bali tourist boom since the late 1960s has seen much development in the town; however, it remains a centre of artistic pursuit.
